

Meg Armstrong
Prof. Matte
Writing for Comm
8/31/20

Statement:

After spending a lot of time thinking about and discussing options, I have decided to opt out of this year's season. I am extremely grateful to my teammates and coaches for their understanding, and to the fans for your support. Even though I will not be participating in games, I will certainly try my best to help the team whenever I can. No matter what they choose to do about playing this season, I wish everyone on the team the best of luck. There's nothing I want more than to be back on the field. However, I believe this decision is necessary for my family's health as well as my own.

For the next season, I'm counting on all of you to assist my return. Please wash your hands frequently, wear a mask, and socially distance yourselves to prevent the virus from spreading. I believe that with enough caution, circumstances will soon be safe enough for me to support the team directly in games and practices. More importantly, following these measures will help prevent people from becoming sick. Once again, thank you everyone for your patience during this difficult time. I hope this turns out to be a great season!

Tweet:

I have made the difficult choice to opt out from playing this season. Thank you to teammates, coaches, and fans for your support. I hope you all stay healthy and safe. Meanwhile I will help the team however I can. Let's have an excellent season!